

Visit from Students of Kobe University's School of Medicine

On 13 March, Consul-General Ishikawa received a visit from students of Kobe University's School of Medicine.

On the back of a 40-year plus sister-city agreement, Kobe and Brisbane are working to strengthen their partnership through student exchanges and community healthcare training programs. As part of this initiative, the students participated in a training program at The University of Queensland's Faculty of Medicine.

We support their efforts to deepen their understanding of each other's advanced medical technologies and community healthcare systems, and wish them every success as they go on to become doctors who make their mark on the world!
